

The Distillery District Heritage Website (<http://distilleryheritage.com/>)
Copyright & Credit

The Distillery Historic District provides the images and other materials on this website for the purposes of self-discovery, education, and research.

Canadian copyright law protects the website, the images, and related materials. In cases where materials are not in the public domain (e.g., photographs taken before 1949) or are not owned by the Distillery Historic District, users are required to get permission from the copyright holders before reproducing them.

The Distillery Historic District owns the copyright in this website. All images in the public domain or owned by the Distillery Historic District may be reproduced without prior permission, in print and/or digital format, for the purposes listed below, provided those purposes are not of a commercial nature, and proper credit is given.

Acceptable purposes are:

- Research / reference
- Private study
- General interest
- Teaching

Those wishing to use images or other materials for commercial purposes must obtain prior written permission from:

Mathew Rosenblatt.
mr@thedistillerydistrict.com
The Distillery District
9 Trinity Street, Suite 200
Toronto, ON M5A 3C4

Modern photographs not attributed to another photographer were taken by Sally Gibson.

In all cases, when images or other materials from this website are reproduced, credit must be given to the Distillery District Heritage Website as the source of the material.