

Winter Works

A familiar sight during the winter of 2007-08

*W*inter 2007-08 has been long, cold, and especially snowy. Even after the vernal equinox announced “spring,” winter refused to give up. Regardless of weather, however, construction, repairs, and maintenance work continue at the Distillery District. To celebrate, and commiserate with the people who have had a more intimate relationship with “winter” than most Torontonians, here are some photos documenting what may still turn out to be a record-breaking snowy winter.

Bricklaying at about 20-below

Undercover operations atop Buildings 53-57

Bundling up to weather strip

A white Christmas season

An Easter Week-end fit for sled dogs

Spring will come. Spirits will rise. Patios will open. And Distillery life will move on toward summer.

Please send your comments or questions to Manager of Heritage Services, Sally Gibson, sg@thedistillerydistrict.com.

For more about the history of the Distillery District, visit www.distilleryheritage.com